Foreword

As the laborious and fascinating process of erecting a bridge resolves itself into completion, so does man spend his life from the very beginning on the task of building his own bridges.

During man's earliest moments he recognizes the necessity for close contact with the world in which he lives. He begins his bridges as he begins to learn, for his spans are projected toward life as the Narrows Bridge has been made a link between the peninsula and the mainland. He chooses as sites his hopes and his dreams, and throughout life he sends arches gleaming in the light of youthful ambition toward the distant reaches of his ultimate goals.

Whether or not these arches are as sturdy as they are hopeful depends upon man's blueprints—his plotting as to what will be done with his life and the manner in which it will be accomplished. It is here that his education constitutes a powerful influence. As careful, intricate planning preceded the building of a bridge which would not be destroyed by the winds of the Narrows, definite schemes are made for education, so that the best designs and materials may be used to form arches that remain unscathed by the wild weather of life. Such bridges, fostered by the planning and execution of those things which lead to the realization of man's highest ambitions, will survive his lifetime—sturdy, invincible, of infinite use and beauty.

In recognition of this—one of the great tasks man has accomplished — the building of the bridge has been chosen as the theme of the 1951 Lincolnian.

Dedication

Years of endless planning and toil preceded the successful completion of the Tacoma Narrows Bridge. During these years the builders of the bridge were beset by nearly every conceivable barrier.

Held back by interminable delays over money grants and loans from the government, the bridge was begun at last after a battle of 10 years. Its triumphant completion had barely been brought about when the forces of nature themselves sent it crashing down. Immediately, the workers began the task of rebuilding the bridge in theory and in reality.

On Saturday, October 14, 1950, the opening ceremonies took place on the Tacoma Narrows Bridge — a tribute to those who had labored for this day and a gateway to the development of the peninsular region.

Through the completion of this gigantic task the men responsible for its existence demonstrated to the world the limitless goals which man can achieve. They show that man by building his own bridges as dauntlessly, as steadfastly as they did has the world within his reach.

To those men who once had a dream and who resolutely hewed their way through all obstacles that blocked their path, who set an example of the highest type for their fellow men, the 1951 Lincolnian is dedicated.

Administration

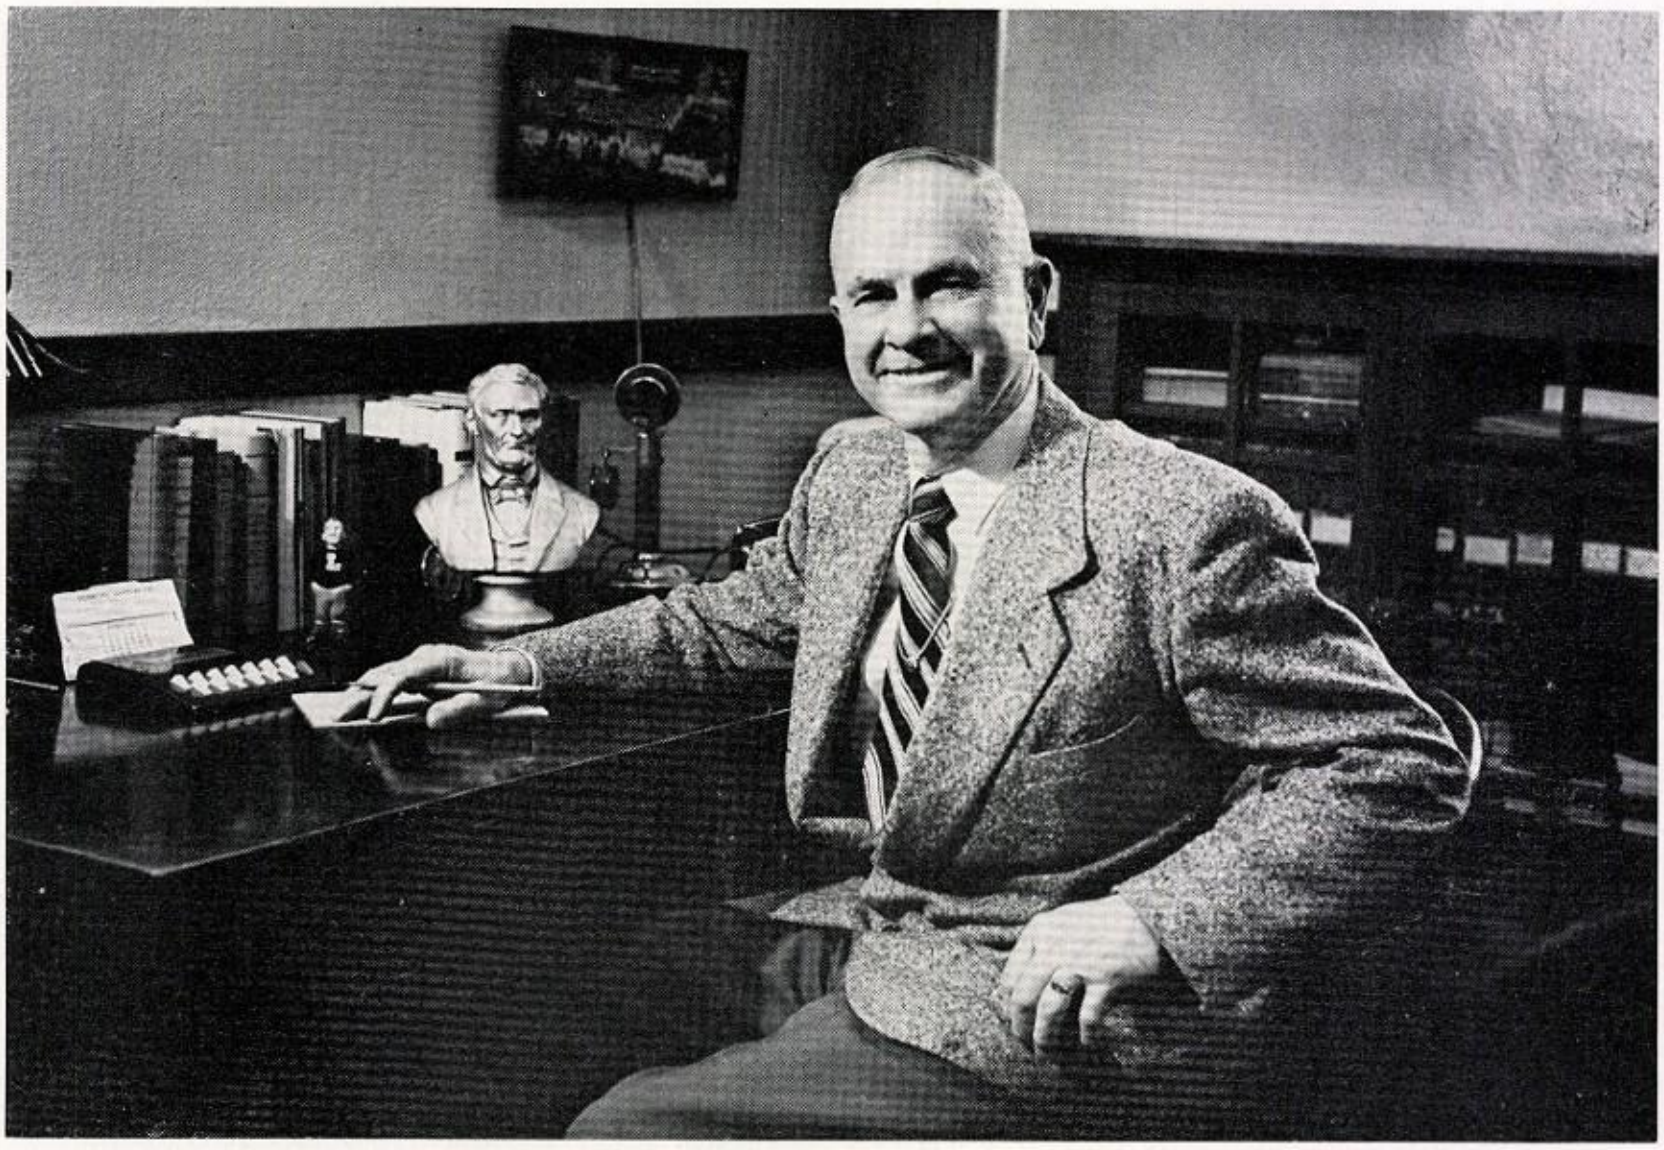
The Narrows Bridge planners in action have exemplified that almost infinite plotting and organizing are necessary to build sturdy, enduring bridges that will serve throughout life those who make use of them.



BURT O. BEAL

Principal's Message

Just as the mighty Narrows Bridge spans the majestic Puget Sound, thereby making possible an easy passage from one place to another, thus indicating progress, so does education tend to bridge the gap between ignorance and a well-trained individual. The bridge cannot be a "Galloping Gertie", but must be sturdy and strong to withstand the elements of nature and the constant traffic; likewise, the bridge of life—education—must be thorough, having within it such essentials as seriousness of purpose and constant effort to build a structure which will eventually mean happiness and a greater contribution to society.

It is my sincere wish that each member of the Class of 1951 shall have acquired an education sufficient to produce a life of usefulness—one of genuine service to the community in which he may have chosen to live.

Best wishes and good luck to all.

Burt O. Beal

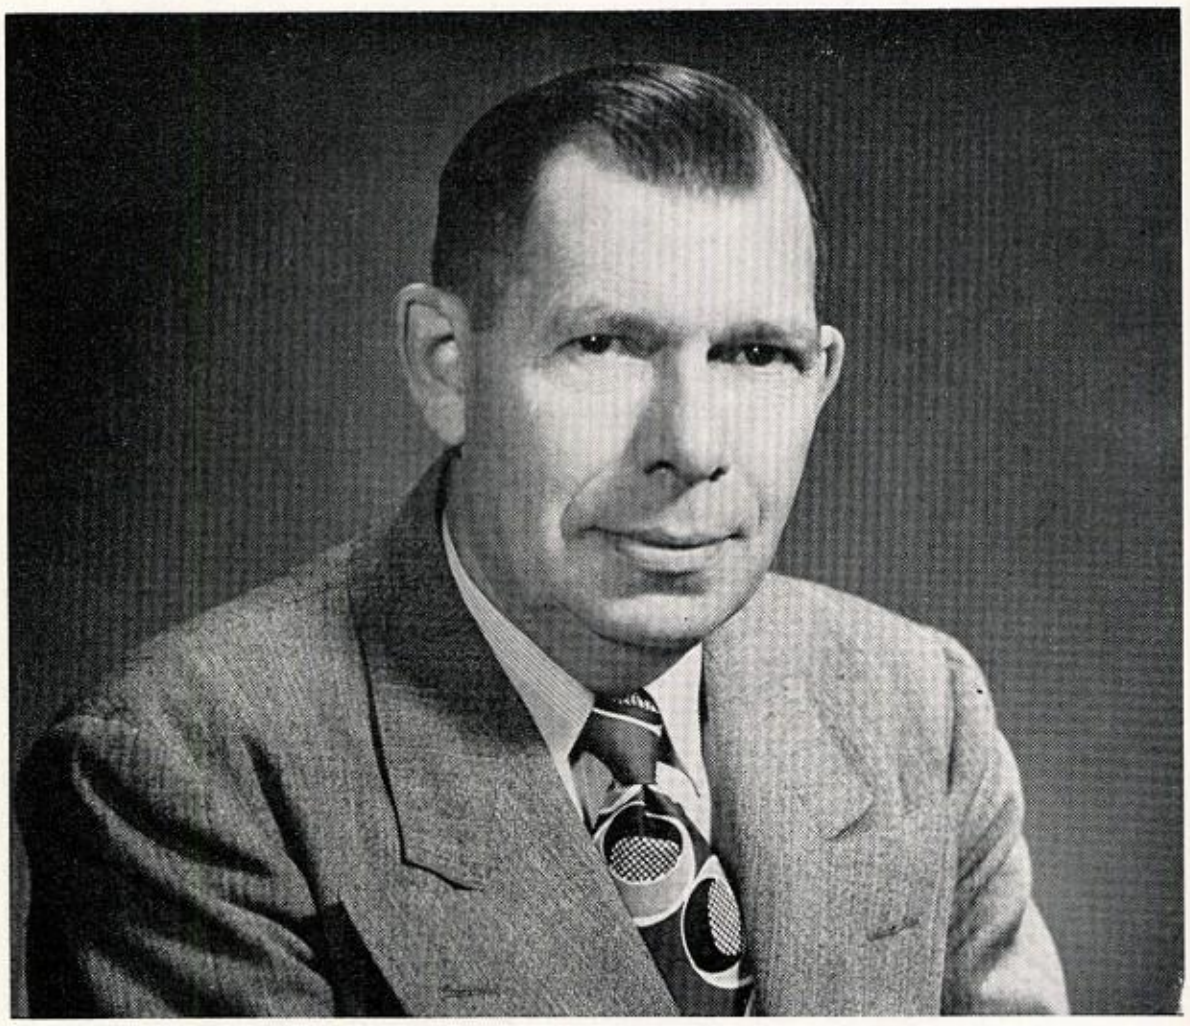
Hardie Serves School As Arbitrator, Adviser

As a mighty bridge needs supports, so does a mighty school. At Lincoln, one of its most vital supports is Mr. William B. Hardie, assistant principal.

Listening to the troubles of students, helping sophomores through the first few weeks of their new and confusing school life, and soothing the strained relations between students and teachers, never seem to dim the smile of Mr. Hardie.

His other duties include assigning special or modified classes, adjusting the school finances, ordering and distributing supplies, and acting as administrative head of the guidance department.

When there are conflicting subjects, changes to be made and classes to be rearranged, all roads lead to Mr. Hardie's office.



W. B. HARDIE

Guidance Service Goes To All Classes

"Want a job? Want to know about some particular college or profession?" These questions can be answered by five capable teachers who compose the guidance department.

Arranging with twenty-one representatives from colleges and universities throughout Washington and Oregon, the guidance department started the seniors of '51 on thinking about the possibility of increasing their opportunities for jobs by receiving college degrees and what college or university would be best suited for his or her needs.

To help the students decide what work for which they think they would be best suited and the work they'd like, the guidance department instigated interest and aptitude tests.

The guidance department arranged for the graduating seniors a trip through Tacoma Vocational School. Teachers and students of the school showed the seniors the shops and classrooms where so many students, veterans and unskilled workers have been trained for higher paying jobs.

With the cooperation of the Washington State Employment Service, the guidance department gave an opportunity to graduating seniors who did not plan to attend college to take tests and receive help from the Employment Bureau in finding suitable jobs.

With the ending of their high school years many graduates will give their heartfelt thanks to the helping hand given them by Lincoln's guidance department in helping plan their future.

Office Force Efficient

Day in and day out, the functions of the school revolve around the office, and to keep these functions in order is the duty of Chief Clerk Mrs. Maxine Cissne. Working in the capacity of assistant clerk in the office is Mary Ellen Zevenbergen, a recent graduate of Lincoln.

These two with the reins of Lincoln in their hands did a commendable job. Lincoln was kept on its even keel with apparent ease and simpleness but the hidden factors behind the smoothness were the ever present, efficient office force clerks.

Attendance Clerk Meets Task With Smile

"May I be excused to go to the dentist?" "I was late because of the alarm; it didn't go off."

Headaches, sore throats, measles—all day long a parade of ills pass through the attendance office, but Miss Elizabeth Washburn listens to all with a cheerful smile and a sympathetic answer.

Her job isn't an easy one, for she must discern between the truthful and the prefabricated when it comes to excusing people who ask.

Many a weaker persons would probably be 'down in the dumps' by sixth period, but not Miss Washburn. Besides keeping track of the students who are in school, Miss Washburn keeps the records of the alumni of Lincoln.

Truly, Miss Washburn is an important cog in the machine of Lincoln High.

Faculty Acts As Bridge To Advise Students

Now, as a major lap in the span bridging the gulf between childhood and adulthood is nearing completion, and the mists that shrouded the center of the gap begin to wane and fade, strange, frightening shapes that we have mistrusted take on real and friendly form in the new light that lies at the end of the bridge.

Our attitude toward our teachers is the best example of the darkness and suspicion that surrounded so many things in junior high and high school. As long as we can remember, the faculty has always meant authority—someone to watch for before you spoke to your neighbor in assembly. But now as the sky clears of so many old fears the formerly doubted faction behind the desk becomes known in its true guise.

The stinging ruler became the guiding hand; the sharp reproof changed to the sympathetic encouragement that has helped us over so many rough spots. Grimaces that always set us trembling in our bobby sox are now smiles that warm our hearts and allow us to feel, if only for a short time, that we are as adult as our great-grandpappy ever was.

As if just the ordinary, everyday jobs weren't a full-time undertaking for the busiest profession around, you'll find the faculty willingly participating in P.-T. A. contacting the parents of brilliant and slow students, learning more about their charges. Games and dances wouldn't seem the same without a teacher at the door to send you into the gym grinning over a quip or a friendly dig about your work. And how about that pet club of yours? The informal "after-hours" talk with a favorite instructor makes him seem even more like a co-worker who wants to see you get ahead.

Still more services in other capacities mount up and up in number and importance. Student's appreciation mounts in accordance, but thanks—mere words—will never express the gratitude felt by tired textbook toters.

Although many of teacher's kindnesses received no immediate thanks from quivering lips, it will be many years before that sympathetic pat on the shoulder of that effective kick in the pants is forgotten. Thanks for everything. We'll never forget you.

Student Council Works For School Spirit

Just as a nation is no better than its government, Lincoln is no better than its governing agencies, and the Student Council, student executive and legislative group, had this for its guiding principle this year. School spriit, citizenship and activity stemmed from the student officers.

One of the major projects undertaken by the council was a pep and school spirit drive during football season. On a Monday morning the students were greeted by black and gold streamers up and down the halls and signs everywhere urging pep and school spirit. A clean-up campaign was organized through various clubs, and an effort to better the existing conditions in the cafeteria and school grounds was carried out.

Last October the council followed the plans of the previous year's council in playing host to representatives from Stadium, Bellarmine, Clover Park and Fife in a county conference. By exchanging ideas and methods, the different schools were able to bring back information that would help promote student government in their schools.

Using the theme of the daffodil festival, the council sponsored a dance, "The Daffodil Daze" in the spring and the proceeds from this were used to contribute to the P.A. system and scholarship fund.

It was decided that the prices of school dances at Lincoln should be lowered and to bring this about the council purchased a sound system and record player for the gym, thus cutting down the expense which always had to be paid for the services of a band.

Another method used to raise money was a cookie sale in March to all teachers with the idea that any money made on the sale would go toward the purchase of curtains for the cafeteria. With curtains in the lunchroom, the council thought the effect would help curb the untidiness.

Along with these extra projects, the council found time to ratify the usher club's new constitution and to recognize the newly re-organized Lettermen's Club.

True Government Is Aim Of Student Court

With an eye to the fulfillment of true government by the students themselves, the student court moved into its third year as a part of Lincoln's student governing system amidst numerous troubles.

Under the able leadership of Judge Jim Traynor and Assistant Judge Ed Olmstead, the court overcame much opposition to succeed in carrying out a successful year of law enforcement. Carol Daniel was a clerk-bailiff and Arthur Turner was faculty adviser.

The problem of apprehending violaters of school regulations was the major obstical facing the officials of the court as they took office. Various methods were suggested and several were tried with little results.

About mid-semester an outbreak of violations created a serious situation and Mr. Beal called on all school and club officials to back the student court in its drive to curb the actions of a few. This call seemed to work and there were few violations from then until the end of the semester.

In regular court sessions held weekly, violations such as smoking, skipping class, and poor conduct were dealt with by either Jim or Ed with a five-man jury deciding whether the defendant was guilty or not guilty.

With one more year of experience behind it, the student court has a stronger hold as a part of Lincoln's student government and with many ideas already formulated and ready to put into effect next year, the court will show by improvement that it can be a benefit to the school.

P-T.A. Work For Students, Employs Them

Continuously working for the welfare of Lincoln students, the Parent-Teacher Association this year wholeheartedly carried out their theme, "Welding Links for Lincoln."

An example of their service was the sponsorship of the P.-T. A. Carnival held in December. Under the leadership of Mrs. E. T. Muntz, P.-T. A. president, the organization offered games, booths to buy gifts, dancing, a program and swimming to entertain the students attending the carnival. Prizes valued from $500 to $1,000 were given away on a competitive basis. Other activities during the year consisted of a dance, "The Pumpkin Prance" held in October, sponsoring a girl to Girls' State with $60 and giving $160, the largest amount ever given by the organization, to the Lincoln Scholarship Fund.

"Open House" was another feature of the year sponsored by the P.-T. A. Parents, guardians and friends were given a chance to see what Lincoln has to offer its students. Tours of the building were made to acquaint the visitors where, what and how the students are educated and taught.

Membership of 541, the highest ever joining at Lincoln and the most in the associations over the whole city, was Lincoln P.-T. A. this year. Membership on their board also reached a high mark with a total of 35 members.

Mrs. Muntz attended the annual P.-T. A. convention last year in Tacoma, the purpose of which was to train the new officers for their work. They were given classes in leadership, programs, membership and many other phases which would be useful in their work as an officer. The convention is scheduled to be held in Bellingham this year, and the incoming president will attend.

Officers for this year were Mrs. E. T. Muntz, president; Mrs. P. E. Ohlson, vice-president; Mrs. F. F. Nicholson, second vice-president; Mrs. Charles W. Dawson, secretary and Mrs. Mark Peterson, treasurer.

Seniors Reach First Milestone On Span Of Life

Bridging to the future! Education is like a mighty bridge which spans from the age of adolescence to that of accountability and maturity. As the powerful steel girders give support to any bridge, likewise, experience is a determining factor to this bridge of life.

Nearing an important post on this interminable bridge of education are the members of the Class of 1951. They will on June 5 prouldly don the black gowns and caps with gold tassels and, in an atmosphere of solemnity, march up to receive that coveted posession, their diploma. With the anticipation of graduation they recall the important preparatory events—the day they were measured for their caps and gowns, the last-minute scurrying about to order announcements and the exchanging of pictures with classmates.

Among the never-to-be-forgotten social events was the Junior-Senior prom, "Dancing in the Dark," which claimed a large attendance and was acclaimed as a huge success by all who attended.

Suspense permeating the auditorium, a spellbound audience and a sterling performance depicts the Senior Class play, "Double Door". The success of this presentation can be attributed to the combined efforts of the stage crew members, students of the creative dramatics classes and the splendid service rendered by the art department.

Three years ago these upperclassmen were wide-eyed sophomores beginning their three-year trek across the bridge of education at Lincoln High. Precariously they entered the portals of this institution with its ivy-covered walls and were overwhelmed by its size. Being lost in the halls and trampled on the stairs were but a few of their unusual experiences.

Getting into the swing of things quickly, however, they elected class officers, undertook the annual scrubbing of "Old Abe" and assumed the duties of annual Clean-Up Week. They staged the "Sophomore Talent Show," student-directed and student-written, and as the year quickly drew to a close, felt themselves a definite part of Lincoln.

Returning as Juniors, they redoubled their efforts to prove their ability and worthiness to assume the responsibilities of upperclassmen when the time came.

With a deep sense of pleasure and joy, perhaps a bit of regret for some, these seniors of 1951 now step onto a new road of life where they will assume the responsibilities of residents of an adult world.

Juniors Prepare To Cross Final Span

"Preparing to cross the final span of the Bridge of High School Education at Lincoln."

Thus stands the record of the Junior Class who next year will take their places as the graduates of 1952. The long-awaited day of commencement is not as far away in the future as it seemed two years ago. When as the "youngsters" this class began to cross the traditionally rough waters of a sophomore group.

The progression was rapid, however; and soon they had chosen class colors, gray and maroon, elected their officers and were shining through brightly in the fields of scholastic ability, sports, and talent. This last was well proven when the sophomores put on an assembly in January that was tops in entertainment. And so, their first bridge was behind them and they went on to the second.

This year, they returned a more active group than ever. First in the order of business was the election of officers. When the smoke of competition cleared away, Bennie Barker emerged the president; with Barbara Alexander, vice-president; Juanita Vargo, treasurer; Pat Ward, secretary; and Mary Nuich, representative to council. Then followed the selection of class jewelry, and preparations began for the Junior-Senior prom, "Dancing In The Dark."

Plans followed for a bake-sale to raise funds to sponsor a dance and party for the graduating seniors, which made a hit with all who attended.

The final link of the second bridge will be the Junior Assembly on the last day of school, and the score will be two down and one to go. Good Luck, Juniors, as you undertake the crossing of the final, most difficult, most wonderful Bridge of Lincoln.

Sophomores Pass First Goal At Lincoln

Gaining a measurable degree of success to the completing of the bridge of achievement in learning, the sophomore class has raised the girders of support toward their education at Lincoln. Confronted with the vastness and newness of Lincoln and the number of students, the majority of 780 sophomores has conquered these stumbling blocks. They have gone forward in the building of their stature in the eyes of the juniors and seniors. Listed among their achievements are a development of character, improved study habits and awareness of opportunities offered to persons possessing such habits. Speedy adjustments in the locker rooms, cafeteria and on the up and down stairs have resulted in a general settling down to studies. New friends have been gained. Students who had their friendship circles consisting of only former associates at junior high school have widened the circle to include pupils from all schools.

All have realized a strong responsibility toward their high school—their home of learning, Lincoln High School.

The sophomores have shown active participation in school projects. Tradition took its place with the annual face-lifting of Abe's statue. This was tackled with true spirit as well as soap, scrub brushes, and buckets.

Representation as a class and to Student Council was governed by well-chosen officers. Bob Fogle, president; Mardell Hodges, vice-president; Barbara Madsen, treasurer; Bonny Waddell, secretary; and Shirley Esnouf, representative to Council, have well been the inspiration of the class of 1953.

The members of the sophomore class have been called upon to offer their suggestions for school improvement. Their ideas have proved both original and dependable. The talent and willingness of this class to offer a performance, was displayed at the annual sophomore assembly.

In the eyes of the seniors and juniors, they have well succeeded in playing their part in this building of character and learning.

Variety Of Duties Line Director's Busy Day

"Get that equipment in by Friday, or else!"

"How about that insurance? It needs to be in by next week."

The speaker is Mr. E. R. Schwarz, Lincoln's athletic director, and such is a typical request coming from the office of Mr. Schwarz.

Mr. Schwarz has a variety of duties, such as general supervision of boys' athletics and to see that the athletic program is run efficiently. Also to give a well co-ordinated schedule and keep the athletic program balanced with the academic course.

His other duties are to arrange a sports schedule, the purchase and care of equipment, insurance, lockers, official letters and finances for team trips.

Sports Heads Promote General Interest In Sports

Promoting a general interest in sports, Ellis Johnson, head of the physical education department, Bill Mullen and Dan Lazare instructors, play an important role in the life of a Lincoln High student.

The intramural program was, as usual, a great success under the capable direction of Mr. Johnson. The intramural department provides a way for boys interested in sports to turn out in their favorite sport. The program provides an outlet for boys who could not make a varsity team for some reason or other.

Intramural boxing, wrestling, basketball, tumbling, and swimming were offered the fall semester, and table tennis, badminton, life saving and decathalon on the spring program.

Besides being head of the department, Mr. Johnson is also coach of boys' and girls' rifle clubs. Instructor Dan Lazare is coach for football and swimming and Bill Mullen assistant football coach. He is also coach of baseball and boxing.

There was only one intramural boxing show this year under the excellent coaching of Bill Mullen, which was very successful.

To these little publicized men of Lincoln goes a salute of gratitude for the many services they have rendered to the boys of Lincoln.

Intramural Sports Offer Athletic Outlet

"Intramural activities offer an athletic outlet for those who are not interested in participating in school sports."

Thus stated Ellis Johnson, director of intramural sports, in which more and more students are participating every year.

Sports are offered in as many fields as there is interest in. Swimming, basketball, badminton, boxing, wrestling, life-saving, and decathlon are a few of the sports offered.

This program offers recreation and gives a chance for pre-season practice for participants who are not enrolled in school.

Because of its test of all-round athletic prowess decathlon tops off the intramural year.

Achieving their goal of success are the members of the Lincoln High faculty who turned out many fine athletes of the school, which showed to be a great task.

Under their capable leadership many students learned the many important advantages behind sports activities.

The hoopmen of Norm Mayer, the swimmers of Dan Lazare, and the riflers of Ellis Johnson showed much success this year. During the spring season the golfers of Frank Erspamer, Arthur Smith's tennis players, the tracksters of John Sharp, and the baseballers of Bill Mullen will show much action. The wrestlers of Arnold Myhre showed much improvement this year by capturing the mythical state title.

Logan Chosen As Football Inspiration Named to Co-Captaincy With Stortini

"For your fight, determination and sportsmanship you are named the inspiration of the team."

Thus Coach Dan Lazare announced to Warren Logan, end, that by a vote of his teammates, he received the honor to have his name inscribed on the 1950 inspirational trophy as a modern example of the ideals of fair play which Lincoln represents.

The presentation was made at the annual banquet given the Lincoln grid squad by the South Tacoma Kiwanis Club at the South Tacoma Community Center, at which time Warren and quarterback, Joe Stortini were named co-captains for the year.

Warren was chosen for his outstanding qualities of leadership on defense, and for serving an invaluable aid on offense. Warren was noted for his exceptional agility, speed and drive which contributed a great deal to his success.

Joe Stortini was chosen on similar grounds, but particularly for his clever ball handling and determination.

Both boys were named unanimously to the coaches' and News staff's All City Team.

Defeated! Yes, that was the opinion held by the local "pigskin prognosticators" and followers of the sport concerning the Lincoln gridmen, for they lost to every team in the league except Bellingham, whom they managed to tie 7-7. Then came Turkey Day, the day when many opinions were with a new spirit of determination, the cellar dwelling Abes drove, slipped, and passed their way through a mud-covered Lincoln Bowl to a 0-0 tie with Stadium's "mythical state champions."

This show of strength did not bring a city championship to the Abe gridders, but it did bolster the morale of the school and team by proving that they had what it takes.

Although handicapped by the loss of many star players, the Abes managed to start out the season by taking a second place in the Grid-Go-Round classic by licking Clover Park and losing to Stadium.

From then on the going was anything but good.

For the first time in four years the Stadium Tigers won the King's X tilt, dropping the Railsplitters 12-0 with Everett Gust and Bill Tone sparking the Bengals. In the last quarter of this game Jerry Kennedy, Abe first string halfback, sustained a concussion which was destined to keep him out of play for the remainder of the season.

The Abes' next defeat came at the hands of the Bremerton Wildcats when they lost their first Cross State League game 34-7.

Drawing a bye in Cross-State play the next week Coach Lazare set about the task of strengthening weak spots in the backfield and line. Ron Beardsley, end, and Mel Little, fullback, were switched to tackle positions with Joe Mallet leaving end position for the fullback spot. Dick Lack was switched to left end and Ted Smith brought up from the reserves to work in both end and halfback spots.

The following week the Railmen dropped a heartbreaker to Seattle Prep 6-0 in the Abe Bowl.

A week later the Lynx lost their third straight Cross-State game 16-0 to the Everett Sea Gulls as a result of very rugged ball handling.

Lynx-Tigers mix in annual Turkey Day game

Due to an extremely muddy Lincoln Bowl, the Abes' next grid tilt was played on Puyallup Viking turf, where they battled to a 7-7 tie with the Bellingham Raiders.

Lincoln lost its next game, a heartbreaker, to the Bellarmine Lions when they were beaten 12-6 by a last-minute touchdown.

The game was played in a sea of mud as a result of which neither team was able to penetrate beyond each other's 21 yard line with the biggest part of the game being played in the center of the field.

Lincoln's Pigskin landed in the cellar spot of the Cross State League and third in the city league.

Reserve Gridders See Little Glory, Lots Of Work; Yearling Turfmen Tie Lions For City Championship

Little glory and lots of work was the schedule of this year's reserve gridders.

Although they tried hard in scuffles with other reserve strings and in daily practice as punching bags for the first string players, lack of experience overpowered effort, resulting in a slack season.

The Abe seconds under the direction of Bob Roller, '50, and Frank Berry, student teacher, lost one heartbreaking defeat after another. When the final gun sounded the record books showed no wins, four losses for their bruises and hard work.

They lost to Stadium 19-0, Clover Park 7-0, Stadium 16-6, and 19-0 in that order.

Outstanding were linemen Everett Lawrence and Larry Geppert; backs Bob Sullivan and Al Krotchavil.

Tieing the Bellarmine soph eleven for the city championship, the Abe yearlings, under the guiding hands of Coach Norm Mayer, compiled a record of five wins and one loss.

Their only loss of the season was to the Bellarmine sophs 6-0, in their first City League game, giving an indication that there will be good material for the first team next year.

Outstanding in the backfield were Carl Bonnelycke and Darwin Mandt, quarterbacks; Art Johnson and Norm Favre, halfbacks, while Stuart White, tackle, and Don Forslund, guard, were exceptional in the line.

Thus, ran the story of this year's Abe yearlings as they added another chapter to Lincoln High's sophomore football history.

Boxers Develop Sportsmanship In Matches

There's the bell!

Two alert fighters spring from their corners and advance toward each other with utmost caution. Blow after blow is landed by each fighter but neither of the two pugilists go down for the count.

Lincoln High's Boxing Club featured sportsmanship and competition at their annual fall boxing show staged in the boys' gym on December 22. Under the watchful eye of Coach Bill Mullen the fighters were trained to perfection, so that they gave the numerous fans a splendid exhibition of boxing.

In one of the two main events Kenny Ross and Fred Owens battered each other around the ring. At the final bell a well-earned decision went to Kenny Ross. In the other, Duane Sutherland decisioned Ruggles.

Boys winning the big boxing L's are Jerry Woodard, John Jefferson, Dick Roller, Bill Barrett, Don Satter, Duane Sutherland, Kenny Ross and Fred Owens. A team captain was not elected because the team had only one show.

Officiating at the show was Davey Ward, graduate of Lincoln, referee and former professional welterweight. Judges were Al Whitman and Jack Conners.

Matmen Garner Mythical State Crown

Moving toward the center of the mat, skin glistening with perspiration, clenched in each other's bare arms and legs, two wrestlers are struggling to down each other. There is a series of holds, halfnelsons, hammerlocks, and bearhugs. Finally, an opponent is pinned.

This is a typical scene displayed by the Abe matmen this year, as they finished the season by becoming the Mythical-State champions.

Although the Railsplitters had a bad start this year they grew stronger as the season advanced, and clenched four out of five matches at the state meet. George Draza, Jim Hill, Dave Bullat, and Mose Jefferson composed the Lynx delegation and all won their matches. The meet was separated into two parts, the Southern Division made up of Lincoln, Stadium, Longview, and Fife; against the Northern Division, composed of Burlington, Sedro Woolley, and Mount Vernon.

Most of the season's matches were lost by the Abes, but they edged out Fife twice. The score of the first match with Fife was 29-16, and the second 25-21. Stadium, Mount Vernon, Longview, and Sedro Woolley, had a little smoother luck by downing the Lynx in their matches.

Again this year the Stadium wrestlers managed to beat the Abe matmen twice by slim margins, first by the score of 27-19, and then by the score of 20-19, which was the last match with Stadium.

Riflers Win City Crown For 5th Straight Year

City champs!

Yes, city champs, are two words that mean just about everything to the members of the Boys' Rifle Team.

Under the able direction of Coach Ellis Johnson, and Captain Don Ligman, the boys received the Erling Bergerson Trophy, symbolic of the city championship, for the fifth consecutive year. This was their goal and a goal they well deserved.

Assisting Don with the duties in and out of competition were: Richard Smith, secretary-treasurer; John Christenson, vice-president; and Harvey Hetrick, range officer.

Dick Smith, first team, received the Tacoma Rifle and Revolver Club's trophy recently for leading the Lynx to a win over the three other City League teams in the club's outdoor matches April 8.

Yes, Lincoln is proud of Coach Johnson and his rifle men for obtaining such high recognition in a truly great sport. Keep it up boys.

Girls Prove To Be Excellent Marksmen

Some people say it's a man's world but the girls on the rifle team proved it differently this year when they shot their way to victory this year to earn themselves the Girls' City League championship.

The girls were captained by Diane Jenkins, with LaMoyne Barcott vice-president, and Kathy Barber secretary-treasurer, turning in an excellent supporting effort.

It should be recognized that only one girl on the team earned a right to a first team letter. This sharpshooter was Joan Osborne.

The girls not only won the city championship but did it the hard way. They completed their season with an all-win-no-loss record.

This fact alone should prove that the girls do hold a place in the athletic field.

Spirit Wins Inspirational Trophy For Schmidtke

Fighting spirit and a determination to win won for Palmer Schmidtke the inspirational Award in basketball. Russ Wilkerson, team captain most of the season, was elected honorary captain of the Abe squad.

Palmer, speedy Lynx forward, was one of the high scorers of the team and was a main factor in the Abes' fast break. He played the backboards well, and showed plenty of speed coming down the court and setting up plays for the Lynx offense.

Russ Wilkerson, the cool, calculating man on the team, was elected captain of the squad after he had served as acting captain all season.

Russ, along with Palmer, played more than any other member of the squad. Both boys are seniors and hope to be playing their next basketball game for a college team.

Lynx Tie For City

Lincoln's hope for a berth in the state basketball tournament came to an abrupt halt as the Seattle Prep Panthers downed the Abes twice in a playoff for the district eight berth.

After closing the hoop season in a tie for the city title with Stadium, the Railmen were compelled to face the Panthers twice in a playoff. They lost the first game 43-39, and the second game 46-39.

The Lynx, with Norm Mayer in his fifth year as coach, had a season's record of seven wins and seven losses. They tied Stadium for fourth place in the Cross State League.

After winning their first three league games against Seattle Prep, Bellarmine, and Stadium, the Abes then proceeded to lose their next five starts. They broke this string by defeating Bellarmine 51-42 in a City League game.

In pre-season play, the Mayermen took the Hoop-Go-Round title for the second year in a row.

The city loop was close all the way with Lincoln and Stadium running one-two most of the season. In their first meeting, the Lynx trounced the Tigers 45-37. Then a successful junior team was introduced at Stadium, and when the Railmen met them the next time, the Tigers beat them 52-42. The Abes had either a title or a tie at stake in the last game of the season with Stadium, and the Tigers came through with a 47-41 win.

Then in the playoffs, Seattle Prep beat both Stadium and Lincoln to capture the district eight berth.

Senior Russ Wilkerson was the captain and playmaker of the team. Other seniors on the first five were Jerry Hansler, Joe Mallet, and Palmer Schmidtke. Juniors were Ron Storaasli and Ron Schiesz.

Reserves Achieve Skill, Basketball Experience

Striving to gain a greater knowledge of basketball fundamentals and by securing a greater playing ability are the basketball reserves. First string players are picked from the reserve team.

Soph Blacks Earn Spot On Reserve Hoop Slate

A clean sweep of games in City League play! A climb to establish themselves as reserves to the first team!

It's the Sophomore Black basketball team we refer to and along with them we must think of the Sophomore Golds who kept their opposing schoolmates on their toes to help keep them at the top of the ladder.

Considered one of the best, if not the best sophomore team in Lincoln's history were the Blacks. This was the first yearling quintet to go through the hoop season undefeated. In post season games the Blacks defeated the Lincoln reserves, Bellarmine reserves, and split with the Stadium reserves.

Golfers Show Promise Try For City Crown

Row 1—R. Aest, A. Haumann, M. Dean
Row 2—D. Anderson, L. Jacobson, F. Nowasky, E. Harrison

A long "Ahhhhhhh" goes up from the crowd as the club meets with the ball and sails over the course. The Lincoln golf team is on its way to another victory and a successful season.

Returning lettermen this year are Art Haumann, Larry Jacobson, Ray Aest and Ed Harrison. Other members on Coach Frank Erspamer's team are, Marc Dean, Floyd Nowasky and Delbert Anderson. All lettermen on the team are seniors.

The divotmen won their first match of the season when they joined forces with Stadium to beat the College of Puget Sound by a score of 9½ to 5½.

In their first league match up to the time of the year book publication deadline the Railsplitter lost to Vancouver by a score of 6½ to 8½.

The team has home and away from home matches with Vancouver, Clover Park, Port Angeles in the Cross State, Stadium, Aberdeen, Bellingham and Everett.

Weather Aids Netmen As Spring Season Starts

There is a racket in one hand, and a ball in the other. The racket is raised for the serve and the ball is dropped. Finally the game is under way. Backhand, overhand, and underhand strokes follow each other in quick succession as the white-clad figures vie for points and set.

Thus starts another game of the Lynx tennis team as lettermen Gene Currah, Ed Johnson, and Dick Elzner return this year to battle for the Abes. Newcomers are Bob Siburg, Bill Brerton, Russel Kilcup, and Bill Rush.

This year the racket swingers are scheduled to play Eatonville, Olympia, Bremerton, Stadium, and South Kitsap.

Because it is a game of skill, tennis requires a great deal of practice. With the help of the warm weather more practice will be achieved by net artists this year.

More challenges are expected this year because of the warm weather. Last year rain and wind hindered the Railsplitters, but much of this is not expected this season.

Lincoln Nine Eyes State, City Titles

Bright spring sunshine which gave dry fields and made early conditioning easy, gave Coach Bill Mullen's baseball squad members an excellent start, and, as the Lincolnian went to press, the Railman nine had racked up two wins in three league starts to set the team on its way to a successful season.

Impressive both in the field and batting, the Abes snowed the Bellarmine Lions under a barrage of hits to score 18 runs while Larry LaBounty, pitching ace, held his opponents to one run on three hits and struck out 12 in the first City League game April 17.

Allan Featherstone and Earl Hyder led the Axemen in batting power. Allan, with two triples and Earl, with the only double of the game.

In the doubleheader with Seattle Prep the following Friday, LaBounty pitched the Abes to an 8-4 win in the opener. Larry fanned eight batters and turned in an outstanding performance at the plate by hitting a home run and two singles. Featherstone and Hyder both slammed out doubles.

Larry Robinson and Earl Hyder's combined efforts on the mound were in vain in the second game as the Abes bowed to their first defeat of the season, 19 to 12. Hyder and LaBounty both hit homers in this game with Larry also hitting a triple and Featherstone a double.

The loss of such stars as Bob Longe, Gordon Grubert, Jack Murphy, Dick Larsen and Donn Koessler has not helped the team, but with the return of five lettermen, Alan Featherstone, Larry LaBounty, Joe Stortini, Russ Wilkerson and Dick Lack to the starting lineups, the season should run quite smoothly for the Abes.

Lincoln's only weak spot is in the pitching staff. Because of a league ruling, a pitcher may be used against an opponent only once. This means that Mr. Mullen will be able to use LaBounty only once against each team in the league.

The batting power of the team however, will help to offset this ruling. Such hitters as Joe Storaasli, Ron Storaasli, Earl Hyder, Allan Featherstone, Ron Schiesz, Russ Wilkerson, Jim Olson, Dick Lack and Larry LaBounty are a big threat to the opposition. Lincoln has great possibilities of ending up in a top berth in the city and cross state league.

Thinclads Win 2, Lose

Beginning with a few returning lettermen and lots of inexperienced enthusiasts, Coach John Sharp has again proved his value to Lincoln by working the willing tracksters to a record of one narrow loss and two wins as the 1951 Lincolnian goes to press.

As the training began, the future looked a little gloomy, but after weeks of training, the hard work and high spirits of this group were given a chance to test their progress when an equally determined Seattle Prep cinder team jogged out on the Lincoln track.

It was nip and tuck all the way, and the spirited Abes were leading 55-53 when the last event began. After being disqualified for not passing the baton correctly, Seattle Prep went ahead to win the meet 58-55.

Still determined to win, the thinclads trained furiously during the following week in preparation of a foot-warming party for Auburn in a dual meet at Lincoln. The training seemed to pay off, for the Abe trackmen swamped Auburn 76-32.

Their decisive victory over Auburn seemed to inspire the Presidents a great deal, for they decided to revenge last year's loss to the Hoquiam Grizzlies. As a result, when the Abes trekked to the Grizzlies' lair the following week, they ran the red-and-white-suited Bears black and blue, to take laurels in a memorable 60½-52½ cinder clash.

As the Lincolnian goes to press, Coach Sharp's cindermen were preparing to defend last year's 66-46 victory over the Aberdeen Wildcats.

The reason for a great deal of their success can probably be attributed to their even ability, with a few outstanding and few

Neil, who took Lincoln's only first in the state meet last year with a sizzling 4:29.7 mile, has won just as consistently this year, paced closely by his brother Max.

Leading in points, are Warren Logan and Mel Kauzlarich, seniors. Both boys participate in track and field events and have decided between winning or losing a meet.

Doing honors in the shotput and discus are Warren Billingsley, junior, and Joe Mallet, senior, who journeyed to the state meet last year.

Taking consistent seconds and thirds in other events are Benny Barker and Otis Anderson, juniors, in the high jump; Floyd Singletary, senior, in the pole vault; and Carl Bonnelyke, sophomore, in sprints and relay team.

Swimmers Win 6th Spot In State Meet

Number six in the state!

This was the place Lincoln took in the State of Washington Scholastic Swimming Association Tournament at the University of Washington March 17.

Lincoln's top point-winners were Orvel Larsen, fifth place winner and Jack Snavely, who took sixth in the 200-yard, free-style event.

In their two meets with Stadium, the Railmen lost the first of these by a score of 18-57. In the second meet they won, 42 to 33. The mermen lost their first road meet to Bremerton by a close score, 36-39.

When the Lynx tangled with the University of Washington, the Railsplitters lost by a score of 18-57.

In the first of their road meets, the Presidents edged Longview by 36-39 and 42-43 scores. The Axemen lost to Bremerton 36-39. When Lincoln met Aberdeen in two meets, Lincoln walked away with the first meet by a score of 51-23 and in the second meet the Abe finmen lost 42-33. In their only meet with Vancouver, the Lincolnites swamped the Vancouver swimmers by a score of 53-21.

Swimmers who won their reserve letters were Bob Merriman, Lynn Alger, Gordon Tressness, Larry Hoover and Darrel Haugen.

Student Leaders Invaluable Aid In P.E. Program; Boys' Sports Managers Serve Needs Of Athletes

Under the direction of Physical Education Instructors Bill Mullen, Ellis Johnson and Dan Lazare, 37 capable student leaders have proven themselves invaluable aids in the training of many athletes during the past year.

"These leaders," disclosed Mr. Johnson, "have made it possible for us to give a broader and more beneficial physical education program by acting as instructors in basketball, swimming, wrestling, boxing, tumbling and apparatus, badminton, and life-saving.

The leaders are chosen from the best available upper-classmen and in order to keep their eligibility valid, they must show a sincere desire to help the boys improve their physical prowess, in addition to a working knowledge of the sport they are instructing.

In return for their work, the leaders are awarded chenille emblems, plus excellent opportunities to develop technique in leadership which might prove helpful in later years.

Under the able direction of E. R. Schwarz athletic director, the boys sports managers have done a brisk business checking valuables, issuing towels and equipment, and providing rubdowns and medical aid for battle weary athletes during the past year.

It was work, work and more work with little credit or glory for these boys, but they seemed content with their job.

While teammates were out under the public eye, these "men behind the scenes" might have been found patching worn equipment, carrying refreshments to tired players, or perhaps timing a race.

Requirements for managers include above all, trustworthiness, honesty and the will to work. When qualifications are met, Mr. Schwarz and the coach of the sport involved choose from the best available.

Versatile Lassies Lead Sports Program

A whistle was blown and the game stopped, as a foul was called. Once again the sports head fulfilled her duties as a referee.

For whether the sport happened to be volleyball, baseball, swimming or badminton, these girls carried on their jobs smoothly and efficiently, displaying their ability to lead.

It was such qualities as these, that LLL considered when the appointments were made. For not only must the applicant be capable of leadership, but she also must have pep, the ability to coach and referee, enthusiasm for the sport, and above all good sportsmanship.

Once at work, time must be spent in planning and posting schedules and keeping records.

This year the entire after school sports program consisted of volleyball, basketball and baseball as major sports; and swimming, hiking, badminton, tumbling and rifle as individual.

With the assistance of Mrs. Vivian Sterling and Mrs. Jessie Hutton, the various large turnouts were kept in order throughout each season.

Under the direction of Doreen Johnson, general sports head, this program drew to a close with the finish of the baseball season, leaving behind the knowledge of a job well done.

It's Balls, Bats, Books For Sophs' H.P.E.

Using a combination of books, balls, bats, rackets and a piano to instruct, the girls' health and physical education department has once again completed the task of building physically the sophomore girls.

Comparative quiet reigned throughout the year, in portable three, as Miss Helen Clarke efficiently handled the job of health and education.

The thump of a basketball, the slap of a volleyball and the shuffle of dancing feet were typical sounds issuing forth from the gym. For Mrs. Vivian Sterling and Mrs. Jessie Hutton, physical education instructors, and the student leaders serving under them, each day consisted of six periods of unceasing activity. Whether up on the floor or down in the pool, there was always some new situation to meet.

The period began with a set of exercises, followed by either dancing or a sport. One day a week, the boys' and girls' gym classes combined forces for dance instruction. During the time spent on floor work, the girls were taught how to play volleyball, baseball and tennis.

The thud of arms and legs against water introduces the third phase, swimming. Divided into beginning, intermediate and advanced classes, they were taught better swimming.

According to the placement system, every period was divided into three groups at the beginning of each semester; the health class, floor class and the swimming class. They remained there for six weeks, then were transferred to another part of the program, until they had finished all three.

It is only through the coordinated and untiring efforts of these three teachers and these student leaders, that the guidance and instruction of all classes throughout the fall, winter and spring have been carried out successfully.

In the annual battle for the girls' volleyball crown, the sophomore A team emerged from the scramble with a record of seven wins and no losses, and the championship title.

Captained by Arlene Stidell, the victors formed a combination that proved hard to beat. Yet, the seniors were a serious obstacle in the climb to the top.

Working their way up through the season, the senior team, led by Wilda Ratzlaff, also won game after game. Playoff time found two evenly matched teams, each with six wins and no losses, as the top contestants.

A hard fought encounter, full of activity and spirit, followed and the seniors bowed to the sophs by a score of 17-10, to take second place.

The junior A's finished in third place, a 5-2 average to their credit.

A turnout of approximately 75 girls, comprising eight teams, entered into the spirit of the tournament to make it an exciting one.

Speed! Skill!

These are the qualities most important in the fast moving game of basketball.

With an amendment to the rule that prohibited girls from dribbling the ball, the importance of speed and skill increased.

Action - craving girls turned out in swarms for after-school participation in basketball.

Sixteen teams were chosen by Mrs. Jessie Hutton, instructor. Because the turn-out was so large it was necessary to divide the teams into two leagues, the sophomore and upperclassman.

The girls practiced shooting, dribbling, passing the ball and team work and soon they were ready to fight for the championship crown.

When the final game was over and the last basket made, team four, captained by Dorcas Marshall, survived as the sophomore champions and team ten, captained by Beverly Morud, as the upperclassman winners.

Underclassmen Swat Way To Girls' Tourney Title; Sophomore Swim Team Splashes To Meet Victory

When the last sounds of a battle between sophomore and junior softball teams drifted from the upper bowl, the sophs had won the final game, making them champions of the girls' annual baseball tournament.

Victory after victory was added to their favor, as the underclassmen, led by Marilyn Crossman, batted their way through the tourney to finish with a 6-0 won-lost record. Out-fielding and out-hitting each opponent, they displayed the speed and ability that were their two winning factors. The juniors took second place with 5-1.

Keen competition was furnished by the nine teams participating. Approximately 100 girls answered the diamond call. A period of five weeks training was completed before the actual team play began. During this time the girls were given instruction and practice in batting, catching and throwing.

With the close of the tournament, came also the end of another successful active sports season.

Setting a fast pace, from the start, the sophomore swimming team, totaling 56 points, won over the junior and senior contenders in the annual girls' swimming meet, held in May.

Led by Sharon Hodgert, who tallied 23 individual points, the sophs splashed their way to victory. They compiled a record of five firsts, six seconds and five third spots, proving to be an eight-man combination too good to beat.

The meet got under way with first and second races taken by Wilda Ratzlaff, junior, and Marcia Keefe, senior. In the third, a free-style battle, the underclassmen took first and third places, starting their swim to victory. During the remainder of the contest, the victors added first in the free-style relay, the crawl (for form), the back dive and miscellaneous dives to their list of honors.

The seniors followed with 46 points to the third-place juniors' 26.

Aquamaids Exhibit Swimming Techniques

Enthusiastic applause rolled across the water to greet Tuna Clubbers, as onlookers paid their tribute to an excellent exhibition of synchronized and rhythmic swimming, at the close of Tuna Club's annual water show 'Hit Parade'.

This was praise well deserved, for months of time and energy had gone into its preparation. Beginning early in the year, members spent hour after hour practicing and perfecting each small detail. The result of all this patient and careful work was the 'Hit Parade' held April 19, 20, and 21 in the boys' pool.

Each number represented a song in their special hit parade, such as "Onward Lincoln" in top spot, "Somewhere Over the Rainbow" and "Patricia".

The main purpose of the club is to improve swimming techniques and to learn the art of synchronized and ballet water movement. It takes an accomplished swimmer to master these intricate routines. Tuna Club is comprised of such aquamaids as this. Try-outs for admittance are held the first of each semester. Applicants must know the front crawl, the back crawl, side stroke, back stroke, duck dive and surface dive in order to become a member.

Once in, they met each Tuesday with Mrs. Vivian Sterling, adviser and Joanne Daniel, secretary-treasurer, in the girls' pool to swim. The last Friday of the month was devoted to business.

Last year a life-saving class was offered to Tuna Club members, but not everyone was able to participate in it. Those still in the club who earned awards are Helen Fry, Carol Daniel, Doreen Johnson, Joanne Wilson, Sally Nelson, and Bev Pitilla.

At the end of the year, the aquamaids sponsored a class swimming meet between the sophomore, junior and senior teams.

Simultaneously co-ordinated and carried to completion, as a myriad of tasks were undertaken on the towers, along the catwalks and cables, and throughout the roadbed in the construction of the Narrows Bridge, so the many activities at Lincoln have a vital role in the development of individual bridges.

News Staff Works Hard For High Rating

Few people realize the long hard hours that are spent in publishing the Lincoln News, but the staff members, editors and reporters alike, will never forget covering their beats digging for news, writing and analyzing it for the paper.

Long hours were spent at the South Tacoma Star every Wednesday night. The editors planned the page make-up and assigned headlines and copy to other staff members. They were John Cootes, editor in chief; Juanita Wall and Phyllis Bucsko, feature editors; Muriel Mojean, managing editor; Judy Densmore, associate editor; Dan Mackey, sports editor; Beverly Berry, exchange editor; Madeline Gammil, copy editor, and Tom Evans, business manager.

Working behind the editorial staff was the business staff. Although handicapped by their small number this little-heard-of group was always busy soliciting ads to keep the paper going.

The problem of raising money for cuts faced the staff this year. It was partly solved by a candy sale and a successful lemonaide sale in the spring. The lemonaide was sold in front of the news shack during both lunches, thus enabling thirsty lunch packers to enjoy something cool to drink on warm spring days.

But being a staff member was not all work and no play. There was a successful Christmas party held for all journalism students at which ten new members were initiated into Quill and Scroll. A fun-packed and educational week-end was enjoyed by nine staff members attending the Pacific Slope Journalism Conference at the University of Washington in February. The publication's year was closed with the Quill and Scroll steak fry and swimming party held at American Lake.

In keeping with the tradition of the paper the Lincoln News again won the Columbia Scholastic Press Association Medalist rating for the 16th consecutive year. John Cootes, Juanita Wall, Judy Densmore and Helen Jeter submitted stories and editorials to be rated in the Quill and Scroll National Scholastic writing award contest.

Much of the success of the Lincoln News was due chiefly to the efforts, the staff, and the patience of Homer A. Post and William H. Sielk, advisers.

Lincolnian Staff Works Toward Two Goals

Finally, the last week of school is here. Everybody's happy. Classes are about over. There are few school-books under the arms of Lincolnites but each has a Lincolnian, and is busily scanning its pages, signing their pictures and wishing luck to classmates over the pages.

To anyone not connected with the staff there is little conception of the work, worry, and trouble that is put into a top-notch annual.

There were weeks spent planning rough lay-outs, drawing and re-drawing page plans, measuring to the very 'nth of an inch. The five sections were turned over to editors who assigned the stories and saw that they were in by the deadlines set. Copy began coming in that had to be typed in triplicate, necessitating the use of four staff typists who did nothing but prepare copy.

Photographing seemed endless, and mounting the pictures even more so. There were days when the sun refused to oblige the staff's wishes and rain ran havoc with picture-taking schedules. The four photographers, LeRoy Lahey, Don Sabol, Walter Ross, and Kenny Coon were busy continually printing and reprinting pictures to the exact size specified by the lay-outs.

Editor-in-chief Helen Jeter, Adviser Homer A. Post, and the editors and associates were all working toward two goals; an annual of which every Lincolnite could be proud, and Honors from the National Scholastic Press Association which previous Lincolnians have received. Attaining these goals would leave among the 30 staff members a feeling of personal achievement—that all the work and worry was not in vain.

Choir Stages New York Musical, 'Brigadoon'

"Brigadoon comes to Lincoln!"

What a thrill ran through the student body as it was announced that this great new musical, prize winner of the Critic's Group of New York City, would be presented here!

By whom? The music department, of course. That group, which has written its own operettas and produced them in the auditorium, again rang the bell with its remarkable production. This was an outstanding feature in itself, as Lincoln was one of the first amateur casts to present this gay, Scottish musical.

A short glance back through the scholastic year reveals a hustling energetic flock of music-loving, melody-minded students busy from the first month of school, right down to the finish line, when they sang at graduation exercises in their usual impressive style.

Christmas Vespers, the industrial conference, Mid-Winter Concert, Spring Concert, Commencement and Baccalaureate were but a few of the performances given by the choir, many of which will never be forgotten by the members.

For the songsters the most outstanding among these concerts was when they sang in Seattle over "Voices of the Northwest," a program dedicated to musical groups here in the northwest.

Mrs. Margaret Rawson Goheen can be congratulated for her fine work, with the choir, on "Brigadoon," and for the way the choir has held up tradition.

Billie Ellis did a wonderful job, as choir president, in keeping order. She was assisted by LaVonne Dahl and Elsworth Phillips, vice-presidents; Don Kupher, treasurer; Duane Wyckoff, recording secretary; LeRoy Lahey, business manager; Bob Norman, publicity chairman; Arlee Curtice, corresponding secretary; Kay Accimus and Eugene Kennedy, wardrobe committee; Delores Thorsen, librarian; and Beverly Solberg, assistant librarian.

Grading tests and helping to keep order as section leaders were John Langlow, tenor; Don Sabol, bass; Jim Hicker, baritone; Joanne Kroening, alto; and Phyllis Sather, soprano.

Choir Addition, Studies Build Vocal Department

Another milestone in a long and colorful music history under Mrs. Margaret Goheen was met and successfully passed as the newly-formed Girls' Choir thrilled its Easter assembly audience with the stirring "Jesus Wept" and "Hosannah."

Under the leadership of the group's first officers, Clarene Hirschy, president; Diane Bassett, secretary; Mary Schmidt, head librarian; and Susan Bailey, treasurer, the girls won more plaudits from the fans of KMO's Campus Radio Theater. The station turned its microphone over to the singers for one of its April broadcasts.

Just as the Girls' Choir is a type of preparatory course for the senior choir, the Beginning Girls' Glee serves as a training period for the more advanced groups. Under the instruction of Robert White, the girls study note reading, construction of tone chords and harmony.

Junior Choral Groups Strive For Senior Choir

Rapidly growing in number and stature, the Boys' Glee Club directed by Mr. Robert Dezell has brought another year's enjoyment to Lincoln students and visitors. The Christmas and Easter programs, the May Concert and a school assembly gave the boys a chance to perform for enthusiastic listeners.

The purpose of Boys' Glee, larger this year than ever before, is to have an organized boys' singing group from which to draw prospects for the senior choir. Many of this year's glee club members will achieve that goal next fall. The boys' blended voices have produced one of the finest glee groups Lincoln has ever known.

The boys joined their feminine counterparts, the Advanced Girls' Glee, to thrill Easter audiences with their interpretation of "This Is My Country," "Were You There" and "O Sacred Head Now Wounded."

Nonettes Gain Praise For Excellent Work

Vividly illustrating the old story about the talent song has for making new friendships and cementing old ones is the career of the choir nonettes. Representing Lincoln around the city, Kay Accimus, Veva Roberts, Helen Jeter, Billie Ellis, Dee Thorsen, Winnie Ray Johnson, Jean Sliva, Joanne Stacy and Alma Olsen, known as the Linkettes, have brought smiles of pleasure and praise to themselves and the music department.

The 1950-51 season has seen their names on the programs of churches, the U.S.O., a local teacher's convention, school assemblies, and the South Tacoma Business Women's Club.

Their sister group, the girls' glee nonnette, was but a short distance behind the senior songsters in excellence. Susan Bailey, Carol Mork, Velta Walters, Audrey Johnson, Mary Jo Holmes, Ruth Olson, Kay Koch, Vivian Mattson and Lucille Keller were the voices heard carolling in the auditorium foyer during the Christmas Vespers program.

Trios Tour Tacoma Win Public Acclaim

On the extreme right is the group that throughout this last year has been applauded by audiences in the Clover Park Girls' Club assembly, the Lincoln Junior Assembly, the Sophomore Tea, and the Winthrop Hotel's Christmas program. Appearances with Gary Aleshire's band filled out the year for Lucille Lentz, Marlene Carlson, and LaVonne Dahl.

Next in the row of picutres appear Clarene Hirschey, Diane Bassett, and Colleen Measom whose applause has come from such organizations as the Parent-Teacher Association, the Masons and Rainbow Girls.

"Last but not least", as the old saying goes, come Georgene Hamel, Mary Woolworth and Beverly Solberg. This trio has enjoyed the spotlight at the Winthrop Hotel's Christmas program, at the Takolah banquet, and similar functions.

Band Rates Superior In Two Contests

Superior!

This rating by unanimous decision of the judges was received by the Lincoln band at the Northwest Band and Orchestra Contest, April 21.

Individual and group ratings were also received by members of the band in Bremerton, March 19, where they entered the solo ensemble meet. Superior ratings were won by Diane Anderson, piano; Gerald Larson, clarinet; the clarinet quartet consisting of Jackie Gault, Marilyn Peterson, Earl Starbard and Joan Lukenbill; and the cornet trio with Glen Cole, Tom Hibben and Jim Carlson.

Not forgetting the importance of school spirit, the band's first project of the year was promoting enthusiasm during the football season. Before each game the band marched to the center of the field amid cheers from the grandstand. The field darkened and the audience hushed and rose to their feet as the band began playing the "Star Spangled Banner" while the American Flag was slowly raised. Then they marched back to the grandstand where they continued to keep the cheering section on their toes. Following the game, victorious or not, the band remained to accompany the students as they sang the Lincoln alma mater "Dear Lincoln."

Basketball season followed football, and the band followed the basketball team just as they had the football players. Many times during a game, hundreds of students jumped to their feet as the band rolled off with "Onward Lincoln." Thus, the band accomplished once more their purpose of promoting good sportsmanship and pep during athletic events.

The band entertained the students of Gault, Stewart and Gray Junior High Schools. They performed many times in Lincoln assemblies for the purpose of promoting school spirit, providing entertainment and familiarizing the students with the various instruments and sections of the band.

Their annual performance at the Puyallup Fair and Spring and Winter conference proved even more successful than in past years.

Glen Cole served as president and Joanne Sivertsen as Secretary of the group, while Leroy Hintz and Tom Hibben acted as business managers. Phil Simons, as Drum Major, led the unit of gold and black as they proudly marched through another worthwhile and successful year.

Orchestra Works Hard, Performs Well

Lights were dimming, the musical score had begun and the Lincoln Orchestra was setting the atmosphere of the little Scotch village of "Brigadoon."

A month of preparation was necessary to master the difficult numbers of the 1951 operetta. The orchestra accompanied the choir in musical numbers that varied from imitations of Scotch bagpipes to romantic ballads.

Tingling spines resulted from the orchestra's interpretation of "Valse Triste" during the Senior Class Play. Musical numbers between acts and at intermission prepared the audience for more chills after the opening of the curtains on the mysterious melodrama, "Double Door."

A rating of excellent was awarded the orchestra at the Northwest Band and Orchestra Contest, April 21. They received the rating on the difficult selection, Mozart's "Jupiter Symphony."

March 4, the group traveled to Bremerton where they played in the Festival Orchestra at the ensemble meet. The woodwind section of this honorary orchestra was composed completely, with the exception of one clarinet, of Lincoln students.

One of the most beautiful and impressive programs presented at Lincoln High School was the performance of the 1950 Christmas Vespers. The musical number, "Nutcracker Suite" on which the program was based was beautifully played by the Lincoln orchestra.

Other outstanding performances were given by the orchestra in the Mid-Winter Concert, January 21 and Spring Concert, May 25.

A performance at Gault and Gray Junior High School enabled future Lincolnites to become acquainted with the outstanding orchestra of Lincoln High School.

One of the biggest events of the year was the entire orchestra's invitation to participate in the all-city orchestra, which met May 5, at Clover Park High School.

An opportunity to hear the fine Lincoln Orchestra was also given the people of Tacoma when the group broadcast over the Campus Radio Theater.

As the close of the school year approached work began to decrease for the graduating seniors. It meant more work to the orchestra, however, as they had one final performance to give. It was one remembered by every person in the audience, the graduating class, and the orchestra itself—commencement exercises, '51.

Brasses, Clarinets Rate Excellent Honor

Hard work and fine musical ability marked the brass sextet, composed of two cornets, a bass, trombone, baritone and a French horn.

To prove their talents they received "Excellent" rating in the annual solo-contest in Bremerton this year.

Not only fine musical ability, but close friendship brought the clarinet quartette together. It is composed of one sophomore and three juniors.

Harmonious and enthusiastic work has made their aspiration to become one of Lincoln's best band ensembles a reality.

The "Superior" rating which the group received at the annual solo contest in Bremerton substantiated their worth and they knew they had succeeded.

The quartette has appeared in several assemblies and it is anticipated by Director Robert Dezell to make even a finer clarinet quartette next year.

Quartet, Trio Rates Superior In Contest

Winning of a "Superior" rating at the annual solo contest at Bremerton March 10 proved that the cornet trio has fine musical ability.

This talented trio is composed of a Sophomore, Junior and a Senior. They have the reputation of being one of the finest ensembles here at Lincoln.

Among their activities for the year were playing in the "Winter Concert" and soloing with the band. They also have played at Fife, Gault, Stewart, and McCarver Junior High School assemblies.

Also playing together in fine harmony is the woodwind quartet, one of the busiest groups in the music department. This ensemble consists of a flute, French horn, oboe, basson and clarinet.

Both groups are well praised for their ease of playing together. Not only do they make beautiful music together, but they enjoy playing together.

"New York Critics' prize musical 'Brigadoon' to be presented by Lincoln high music department, Mar. 15, 16, 17."

Thus read the posters proclaiming this year's production, Brigadoon. 'Brigadoon' was in every respect, a smash hit. Long, gruelling months of hard work and unflagging interest were brought to a climax, when the show was given to the enthusiastic viewers.

The leads, Winnie Rae Johnson and Kermit Bishop as Fiona and Tommy, were simply great in their roles.

Billie Ellis, or Meg, carried off the comedy lead in hilarious style and stole every scene she appeared in. The audience was completely hers as she sang 'My Mother's Wedding Day' and 'The Love of My Life.'

His every action, heavy with dramatic undertones, Bob Marchesini, as Harry, the disappointed suitor, held the audience spellbound as he stumbled hither and yon trying to elude his pursuers in 'the chase'.

John Langlow, as Jeff Douglas, Tommy's traveling companion, added sparkle and humor to the dialogue.

Duane Wyckoff's portrayal of Mr. Lundie, was at the same time humorous and touching, as he gave the story of Brigadoon to Tommy and Jeff.

Senior Thespians Ring Bell With Melodrama, 'Double Door'

"Double Door" will always be full of exciting memories for the packed houses who viewed this Senior Class production. For the play, based upon the family pride of Victoria Van Bret of Fifth Avenue and her enforcing domination of her entire household, was brimfull of suspenseful drama, excitement, and adventure.

Lila Lathrop, in the role of Victoria, brought forth a brilliant portrayal; and the performances of the supporting cast kept appreciative audiences enthralled.

Appearing as the over-powered half-brother, Rip, Jack Santangelo, and Janet Wallsten his bride, turned in fine performances. Ellsworth Phillips as Victoria's legal adviser, and Jean Lillquist as her emotionally strained sister carried their part with true character and individualism.

Equally fine in supporting roles were Jim Hicker, Evelyn Gosnell, Dick Erdman, Pat Murphy, Steve Nolan, Glen Cole and Duane Wyckoff.

Credit is certainly due to the producer-director, Morris Summers, who turned out this spectacular show. He was assisted by Student Directors Willa Kenoyer and Kenn Norman.

Recognition is given also to Mrs. Maxine Goodwin for the splendid job of costuming, and Miss Naomi Dietz and her classes for the art work and sets.

School Spirit, Sportsmanship Enthuses Yell Team Majorettes Add Sparkle, Color To Lincoln Band

Vim! Vigor! Vitality!

This was the motto followed by the Lincoln yell team while urging good sportsmanship and school spirit throughout the year.

New yells were presented and initial changes made in the older yells by the sextet. They also suggested the procedure of remaining after a game, victorious or not, to sing the Lincoln alma mater, "Dear Lincoln."

Undaunted by hot, crowded stuffy gymnasiums, or wet, cold, foggy football fields, the yell leaders followed the basketball and football teams to Seattle, Olympia, Bremerton, Everett and Bellingham where they continued to urge good sportsmanship and enthusiasm in backing the team, win or lose.

Spinning batons, splits, backbends, and walk-overs won wide acclaim during the past year for five Lincoln twirlers enabling them to uphold the high standard of the Band Majorettes.

Plastic raincoats were made by the girls to protect their gold-trimmed, black satin uniforms. The uniforms, designed and made by the girls, were introduced in the first Stadium-Lincoln game.

The quintette also marched in the Daffodil and Army Day parade before putting up their batons for the year.

Thus ended a very successful year for Pat Martin who has served two years as head majorette and Pat Murphy and Pat Martin who concluded their third year of leading the band. Arlene Roper, Marlene Carlson and Gerri Reiber also deserve thanks for the remarkable job.

Librarians Guide, Advise Confused Researchers; Ailing Abes Find Welcome In Red Cross Room

Aiding confused researchers, filing books and doing the small but very important odd jobs around room 205, student librarians spend an hour a day helping Mrs. Verna Timms and Mrs. Cloma Dolan, librarians. Divided into three sections, their work chiefly consists of working behind the desk, checking study hall slips and filing and repairing school library volumes.

'Dancing in the Dark'—Senior Prom, January 19

Jrs.' Srs.' Waltz To "Dancing In The Dark" Theme

Couples dancing in a garden with twinkling stars and a big silvery moon shining down on the whole lovely scene sounds romantic and dreamy—just the perfect setting for a very special occasion, like the Junior-Senior Prom. Couples attending "Dancing in the Dark," this year's prom, had the opportunity to dance in just such glorious surroundings as these.

In keeping with the theme, the boys' gym was magically transformed into a garden. Dark-blue streamers were the sky, and silvery stars and a large moon gave it a realistic appearance. The garden was complete with shrubbery, flowers and even dancing silhouettes framed in windows. Mary Nuich was in charge of decorations and she and her committee along with the art department worked hard to create the moonlight-and-roses atmosphere.

Phil Simons and Benny Barker were general chairmen for the gala affair, and they chose their own committee members to assist in planning this most important of events.

The girls, dressed in their filmy formals, beautiful corsages and special hairdos added to the atmosphere of the evening. Not to be forgotten were the boys who looked very special in their smart suits and bright boutonnieres.

A silver silhouette of a dancing couple on a dark blue background made up one of the prettiest dance programs to be seen in a long time. A bright red tassel added a dashing note to this lovely remembrance of a wonderful evening.

One of the cutest ideas ever used was a huge, colorful balloon suspended from the ceiling. At a specific time, the master balloon was popped and hundreds of gay balloons lazily drifted towards the dancing couples.

Popular Ivy Cozart and his smooth band furnished the music. Their rendition of "Dancing in the Dark" was one of the highlights of the evening. In keeping with the mood of the prom, many other romantic numbers were played as the couples dreamily danced away the evening.

The prom is now a thing of the past. The once transformed gym is no longer a mythical garden of splendor. The glamorous formals are now back in their boxes, and the corsages and the dance programs are tightly pressed together in a scrapbook. But 'Dancing in the Dark" will always be a never-to-be-forgotten event in the memories of many juniors and seniors.

Stage Crew Labors

Those props and lights, that scenery, and the stage settings for the operettas, plays, Christmas programs, didn't just "grow there" in a matter of days.

Every member of the stage crew played an important part in the long, exacting task of putting together the perfect background for nearly every entertaining enterprise in the Lincoln auditorium; but very rarely could they enjoy the fruits of their labor.

Patrol Serves Public

Not one serious mishap the whole year. Thus the proof of the efficiency of the traffic crew.

Every day of the year, the boys were on duty at 37th street, before and after the school day, to guard the lives of many a Lincolnite.

On the coldest, iciest, windiest day of winter or the hottest, brightest summer afternoon, this hardworking crew is always on hand to do their job and do it well.

P.A. Crew Rates Thanks

Dust-covered coveralls make up the uniforms of an energetic, hard-working, but practically unclaimed group who answers to the call for "The P. A. Crew in a hurry!"

Keeping the public address system in repair, operating it, fixing up anything that goes wrong in jig time are their duties, and they stick to it wholeheartedly. Their motto might well be "The announcements must go through."

Movie Crew Efficient

It's a big job with no scholastic credit attached, being one of the movie crew; it's a tough, challenging job, too, with plenty of "trouble-shooting" to cope with.

But those chenille L's with the Movie Crew emblem seem to be worth the time and effort it takes to show the moving pictures to Lincolnites, and their ability to handle every arising situation is greatly appreciated by all.

Boys' Club Gives Help To Wounded, Needy

What group constitutes a Kiwanis or a Lions' Club at Lincoln? Answer is found in the Boys' Club. Yes, school projects, charity donations, and social work was done with a smile by members of the Boys' Club this year to rate them as an outstanding service group.

The club started giving its service to Lincoln on the first day of school when the members acted as guides for the incoming sophomores. Members were also supplied to watch the stairways to see that they were used in the manner for which they were intended.

Next came the sponsorship of their annual "Howdy Dance" which is the first dance of the school year. Proceeds from this "get-acquainted" dance went to charity funds and the Boys' Club scholarship.

To raise money to help pay for a bus for the Crippled Children's School was the aim of Boys' and Girls' Clubs this year. Collections were taken at their Thanksgiving assembly, and both clubs sponsored separate projects during the fall and winter to aid in the fund. Boys' Club contributed $150 to the cause.

But this is not the only project accomplished by Boys' Club to help other people. As their Christmas project, they sent fifteen gift boxes to needy people in Tacoma. As a result, much happiness was brought to homes that would otherwise have been sad during the holiday season. Gift boxes packed with food were also sent to wounded soldiers in Korea.

An important reason why Boys' Club was able to accomplish so much this year is because of the fine cooperation between the cabinet members, Boys' Club home-room representatives and all of the members. The cabinet consisted of Bob Romnes, president; Larry Geppert, vice-president; Fred Perry, recording secretary; Jerry Sem, corresponding secretary; Dick Buck, treasurer; Dick Zielinski social chairman; Shun Hung Ling, service chairman, and Glen Greer, representative to council. Dan Lazare acted as general adviser for the group.

Other accomplishments during the year, such as giving a dance during basketball season after one of the games, holding two special Boys' Club assemblies, and selling plastic covers for the Lincolnian completed a year of not only service to students at Lincoln, but to other people and groups as well. Certainly this is a club of which Lincoln can be proud.

Thus completed a year of hard work and long hours spent by the cabinet and members to complete the tasks of their organization during the 1950-51 term.

Service Is Goal For Girls' Club Activities

Service when it's needed!

This is a brief, but complete resume of the work done by the Lincoln Girls' Club this year.

The school year started out successfully for Girls' Club when they sold doughnuts to hungry Abes on the first day of school. Next came the annual sophomore tea. All sophomore girls were invited to attend the affair, where they were introduced to the Girls' Club officers and welcomed into the club.

Thanksgiving time brought about many activities for the club. Their Thanksgiving Day project was to send favors and candies to the Tacoma General Hospital. Girls' and Boys' Clubs together sponsored a Thanksgiving Assembly, and at the Turkey Day football game between Lincoln and Stadium, members of Girls' Club sold programs.

At Christmas time, they gave $75 for the Crippled Children's School to aid in payments for a special bus for the children. The money was obtained through sales and contributions. A cake sale was held in January at the Safeway Store on 46th and Pacific Avenue, and a candy sale was sponsored in February.

Other events during the year were a Girls' Club assembly in December, a dance, "The Bunny Hop" held in March, a Mother-Daughter Soiree and Installation held at the end of the year, and a contribution of $100 to the Lincoln Scholarship Fund.

Girls' Club would not have been complete without their home-room representatives. They took a very active part in the events this year by contributing their services whenever they were needed, and telling the girls in their home-room of coming events and how they, too, could be of service. Girls' Club representative meetings were held approximately twice a month to discuss new events and plan for them.

The idea of having every girl wear black skirts and white blouses on the first school day of each month proved very successful. The purpose of this was to represent the girls in Girls' Club in a uniform dress appearance.

Thus finishes the list of accomplishments of Girls' Club for this year in personal service, charity projects and social activities. Certainly, it is a list of which every Lincolnite should be proud.

Retailers Clubs Co-Sponsor State Confab

Playing co-host to 30 state-wide retail clubs at the spring Washington State Retailers Club Conference, highlighted the year's activities for the Lincoln Retailers.

This conference held March 19 and 20 followed a similar convention early in November at Olympia, which Doug Watson, club president, attended.

In carrying on the work of the club, Doug was assisted in the fall months by Shirley Nelson, vice president; Florence Fleck, secretary-treasurer; Dick Radcliffe, social chairman; and Dennis Brown, historian.

During the Christmas season club members undertook a collection of toys, and with the tree used for their room display, donated them to the Salvation Army.

Christmas time also brought the Stadium Retailers as guests to a party given by the club.

Their next activity was a sock dance, held after the Lincoln-Stadium game January 12. Entitled "The Basket Ball," this affair was the first dance ever to be held after a basketball game.

The change of semester and classes brought 17 new members to the club, making a total of 26. Spring officers were also elected. Doug Watson and Florence Fleck remained as president and secretary respectively while other changes were made. Elaine Svendby was voted to the position of vice president; Shirley Nelson, social chairman; and Dick Buck, historian.

Regular work in the distributive education classes throughout both semesters, included many field trips to the various retail establishments.

Speakers from different fields such as the employment and salesmanship lines visited Lincoln to talk about their work in connection with the class.

As the finale to a successful year, the Retailers staged the annual Employer-Employee Banquet in May. Respective employers were invited by the students, to attend this banquet in order to promote a more friendly relationship between the student employee and employer.

Fellowship Club Aims For Brotherhood

To organize fellowship between all Christians and to show the Christian way of life, is the aim of Lincoln Christian Fellowship.

One of our most active clubs, they meet every day of the week during the first 15 minutes of both lunch periods. They also gather before school in the little dining room, for a prayer meeting. Monday assemblies are devoted to prayer; Tuesday, to verse; Wednesday, a special speaker; Thursday, a student speaker; and Friday testimonials and song.

The officers for the first semester were Lucille Keller and Ann Louise Tveter, presidents; Dorothy Barnhart and Carol Seidelman, vice-presidents; and Barbara Strode, secretary-treasurer.

Prayer, although most important, was not the only activity of the club. At the beginning of the year, they co-sponsored a party with the Stadium Fellowship. In February, under new officers Frank Butts and Ann Louise Tveter, presidents; Sylvia Lund and Henry Platt, vice-presidents; and Betty Bellman and Lucille Keller, secretary-treasurer, they put on their second club affair, a party held in one of the local churches.

To complete their social calendar, they staged a cruise on May 4, and a picnic late in May, for club members.

Students On Ice Attain Grace, Form Of Skating; Party, Picnic Highlight Roller Skaters' Year

Interest in perfecting the grace and form of ice skating attracts many people to the local ice arenas. Among these are the enthusiastic members of the Lincoln Ice Skating Club.

Meetings are not all work and no play for this club. The meetings, held every week at the Lakewood Ice Arena, consist of a short business meeting and then an evening of skating. A successful ice skating party with Stadium raised money for the club. Proceeds from a doughnut sale and candied apple sale were also added to the treasury.

The club is under the guidance of Miss Elizabeth Washburn. Assisting Miss Washburn in keeping the club running smoothly are this year's officers: Joyce Warburton, president; Judy Lovrak, vice-president; Kay Klemens, secretary, and Dick Clark, treasurer.

To promote fine skill and more enjoyment in roller skating is the aim of the Roller Skating Club, one of the most enjoyable clubs at Lincoln. Meetings of this active group of roller enthusiasts are held every other week alternating between the King Rink and the Roller Bowl. The group is under the direction of Arnold Carlson, adviser.

An enjoyable roller skating party held at the Roller Bowl was one of the hits of this year's activities. As a finale to a successful year, the club planned a picnic at Lake Wilderness.

Much of the credit for success of the club's activities should go to this year's officers. They were Arlene Worthen, president; Bill Lack, vice-president; Bernice Roloff, secretary; and Bonnie Ron, Inter-Club Council representative.

Skiers 'Schuss' Through Many Activities

Picture silver tipped mountains, shimmering slopes coated with powdery snow, a brilliant sun makes a slight glare on the frosty landscape. Notice a slim figure emerge from between two hills, schuss smoothly down the steep hillside and glide to a swirling stop before the lodge. See him take the long, curved boards off his booted feet and stride into the companionship of his friends and fellow skiers after a day of strenuous exercise in a winter wonderland of ice and snow.

It's a majestic sight but an every day one for the 40 members of Lincoln Ski Club. Activities galore were the order of the year for the club with ski excursions, picnics and a dance. Keeping the club in hand were Marty Gephart and Dan Lazare as advisers, assisted by Dick Erdman, president; Art Maschner, vice-president; Rexine Norton, secretary; Verlie Eddings, treasurer, and Willa Kenoyer, historian.

The majority of the meetings were held in the home of Rexine Norton, where plans were laid for the various activities throughout the year. January 6 was the big night in the log of the Ski Club, with the sponsoring of a dance, "Schussboomer's Ball" in the boys' gym. Two ski trips were held, one in the fall to Cayuse Pass, and one in January to Snoqualmie.

Aside from their journeys into the wilderness of the ski slopes, the club held a picnic, May 27, at Grayland Beach to climax their eventful year.

For their eleventh year, the Lincoln Usher Club upheld its character of an obliging group, always pleasant, tactful and willing to assist with performances.

This year, 70 sophomore, junior and senior girls participated in social events requiring the passing of programs, checking of activity tickets and seating of adults and students.

The usher year began with Lincoln's annual senior class play "Double Door." Following was the showing of "Pocahantus," a children's day after Thanksgiving program held at the Temple Theater. Next in succession was the P.-T. A. Carnival, Lincoln's inspiring Christmas Vespers, and the Alumni Dance.

Collections were made by the Usher Club after the Blind Assembly and the National School Assembly series.

The girls assisted at the Lincoln music department's Mid-Winter and Spring Concerts. Next in line was the ushering of the operetta, "Brigadoon" and the Tuna Show.

Concluding each year's season are ushering jobs at Baccalaureate and commencement, at which underclassmen who have been good members are permitted to participate, as a reward for their efforts.

Doris Caldwell, president, was assisted by Dolores Kaiser, vice-president; Dorothy Pratt, secretary; Delilah Nowasky, fall treasurer and Janet Brinkman, spring treasurer. Dorothy Hanson served as business manager. The club's able adviser was Mrs. Cloma Dolan.

Charter Change Highlights Scholars' Year

She's a Torch pin winner!

Not only will Lincoln students, persons attending graduation ceremonies and the student's family know of his fulfilled hopes of possessing the honored Torch pin. It will keep its commercial value as a testimony of one's reliability, industry and capacity, in the future.

Honor Society lists as its top accomplishment a constitution change to include the members in the National Honor Society. The scholars formerly belonged to the Torch Society.

Torch pin winners, who for three years have had their names on the honor roll and earned at least four service credits will, in the future, have different Torch pins and will be eligible for various scholarships.

An extensive drive for new members was made in January and a party inviting all 10A's with 3.2 or higher grade-point average was given. Refreshments and games highlighted the afternoon.

Under the able direction of Miss Eva Wakelee, the club was well represented by officers, Sallie Ward, president; Don Strickland, vice-president; LaVonne Dahl, secretary, and Jean Osborne, treasurer.

The annual spring banquet was held honoring new cabinet members and the outgoing officers under the direction of Frid Tjorstead, general chairman. With new officers installed, another successful Honor Society year came to a close.

Hi-Y Members Sell Plastic Book Jackets

"Get your plastic coated book jackets here!"

This was the cry of 35 members of the Lincoln chapter of Hi-Y as students got their first glimpse of the new yellow and black book covers.

Selling the jackets was the club's major project and highlighted a year of successful business by the organization. Other projects of the club were sending delegates to the State Hi-Y legislature, keeping the lunchroom clean, Hi-Y's annual football night and selling cokes at the basketball games.

Dan Mackey and Larry Geppert were selected by the club to represent them in Olympia at the legislature. Here the boys learned the many functions of a government and the methods by which a bill becomes a law.

Handling the reins as adviser of the club for his first year was Robert Rhule, who replaced Morris Summers in December. Mr. Summers resigned the post because of a lack of time due to his work on Lincoln's dramatic productions. Jerry Hansler was the club's president.

On the athletic side, Hi-Y's basketball team compiled an eight-win three-loss record to take third place in the Hi-Y league. They also entered the volleyball league.

Members closed the year with an informal dance in April and a house party in May.

Leading the club's activities as officers were five two-year men. They were nominated and elected by last year's club. The officers and their positions are Jerry Hansler, president; Dan Mackey, vice-president; Jim Hendry, secretary; Kenneth Pim, treasurer; Jack Nelson, sergeant-at-arms and Bobby Norman and Glen Cole, chaplains.

Pep Clubbers Display Spirit, Enthusiasm

Pep!

What does this little word really mean?

At Lincoln it is the enthusiasm and spirit that is within an energetic group of students that encourages sportsmanship at all the athletic events and that boosts the teams on to victory.

This is what Pep Club is for. It isn't like any ordinary club at Lincoln. It has its responsibilities as most clubs do, but the big difference is how they are carried out.

This is what Pep Club is; a service club that engages every one of its members to do their utmost to promote vim and vigor to boost the team on through victory and defeat.

Under the advisership of Charles B. Roe, this year's club started with great vitality by promoting a pep parade preceeding the annual Grid-Go-Round.

Among their other duties, Pep Club chartered busses so that many Lincolnites were able to attend out of town games. Some of the places visited were Everett, Puyallup, Seattle Prep and twice to Bremerton.

A big dance at the Winthrop Hotel in the fall of the year netted the club money enough to make possible the low bus rate to these games.

Parades met the approval of the Lynx this year and the biggest one was for the annual Turkey Day classic between Lincoln and Stadium. Over 65 Lincolnites with decorated cars, trucks and "what have you" participated.

Pep Club helped with the huge Pep campaign and rally during October 30 through November 3 which proved a success in boosting the team.

Officers this year were Delores Polluck, president; Mary Nuich, vice-president; Janice Hager, junior representative; Gene Heck, senior representative; Helen Hansen, sergeant-at-arms; Dixie Goodwin, secretary; Lucie Lentz, treasurer; and Irene Peart, publicity head.

Takolah Girls Active

Service! Religion! Vocations! Personal Relations! Publicity! Social! Arts!

These, the committees of Takolah, are self-explanatory of the club's work throughout the year.

A total of 55 dollars was the amount set for each committee to raise enabling the club to meet the expenses incurred during the year.

The money was used to send chocolate candy bars overseas, as a donation during Brotherhood Week and for the national YWCA, to send delegates to the summer conference, besides scores of other things.

Social committee sponsored the annual Mistletolo, December 23. They also gave a spring tolo May 19, in the Lakewood Terrace as the final formal occasion for the graduating seniors to remember in years to come.

In March, Religion committee sponsored Lincoln Night at the Tacoma Little Theatre. Personal Relations produced the play "Cinderella" in the Lincoln auditorium, May 4.

A scholarship was also given at the banquet to the girl who had done the most toward the improvement of Takolah. Thus the year closed successfully, leaving many pleasant memories for the 200 members of Takolah.

Marchers Win Plaudits

"We are Marcetti Ki, loyal to Lincoln High; watch us to strutting by in rain or shine."

True to this motto are 85 enthusiastic members of Marcetta Ki who have practiced diligently to form a perfectly precisioned drill team.

Starting out this year's activities, Marcetta Ki marched in August for the All City-All State game held in Seattle.

The group, also, performed at the King's X. Seattle Prep, Bellarmine, the annual Thanksgiving Day game, the College of Puget Sound Homecoming parade and game, and the Daffodil Parade.

Marilyn Cady, president, along with Mrs. Maxine Cissne, adviser, are responsible for the fine work of the group this year, along with its cabinet; Evelyn Dettinger, vice-president; JoAnn Dunbar, secretary, and Shirley Nelson, treasurer. The majorettes are Carol Schrag, head; Barbara Beckman, and Helen Fry.

The basketball dance, held after a basketball game, Christmas party and showcase were among this club's social activities.

To wind up a successful year they elected new officers and held a banquet in which this year's officers turned over their offices to next year's leaders.

Scribes Fulfill Aims Of Quill And Scroll

"I will do all in my power to aid the cause of better journalism."

With this solemn oath, members of the Lincoln Chapter of Quill and Scroll, honorary scholarship society for high school journalists, promised to carry out the journalistic standards set for them.

The qualifications to become a member of Quill and Scroll are important. A student must be at least a junior, be in the upper third of his class scholastically, have done superior work in some phase of journalistic or creative writing, be recommended by the adviser, and be approved by the executive secretary. After a member qualifies for this organization, he is initiated into the society.

This year, there were two initiations. The first, at the home of Homer A. Post, adviser, in December, and the second at the annual initiation picnic held at American Lake at the end of the school year. At both of these initiations, the constitution of the society was read, the oath was taken, and the members were presented the well-known Quill and Scroll pin.

This small pin of gold quill and scroll, symbolizes the hard and tedious work done by these students in the fields of journalism at Lincoln. They have excelled in the editorial, literary and business sections of the Lincoln News and Lincolnian. Even though the members of Quill and Scroll worked hard and long all year, they still managed to find time for fun and enjoyment in their spare time. The most important event of the year was the picnic held at the end of May. Swimming, steak-frying, and baseball made up a successful time for all who attended. A fitting finale was the traditional candle-light ceremony of the initiation for all new members of Quill and Scroll and the awarding of the National Scholastic Press Association's pins.

Representing Quill and Scroll in inter-club council this year was Jerry Martin, president of the club.

A Christmas party and many other parties for the members made the year 1951 one of the most successful and active in years.

Local Scenery, Miniatures Fill Camera Club Lens; Foresters Make News Throughout Active Year

Beginning with an interest in amateur photography and working into a broader, clearer understanding a profitable hobby, Lincoln Camera Club members have once again earned a spot among Lincoln's more active students.

A new member entering one of the club's Tuesday meetings would have been given the opportunity to observe slides on color photography, night photography, and developing. To supplement the commentary, club members gain practical experience in developing and enlarging pictures through the regular "dark room" meetings in the schdol photo lab.

All in all, Peggy Eaton and her cabinet, Delayne Smally, Pat Johnson, Doris Stokes and Paul Mann, conducted their assorted camera enthusiasts through an interesting and profitable year.

Trees have long been a favorite border on life's road and the stretch of highway traveled by Lincolnites has been well trimmed, thanks to the efforts of the Forestry Club.

Led by Mr. Charles Bonham and President Charles Corbin and his cabinet, Forestry Club has put in an active year. Perhaps their main project for the year was a search for tree specimens for the school arboretum on Mountain Highway. In December they received specimens from five states and by spring four more states had added to their collection.

October saw three of the group's members off to the Washington Forestry Conference in Spokane.

So another activity-packed year was spent by one of Lincoln's busiest clubs as they forged a link in the chain of character.

Debaters Build Forensic Skill, Win Victories

"Resolved: the Federal Government should substantially increase the welfare state."

With debating the national high school theme as an obvious year's work, the Lincoln Debate Club worked throughout the school year improving their speaking and writing.

"To learn to use language as a tool for thought, and to improve the students' skill in using that tool in regard to logical thinking and planning is the aim of our organization," Mr. Robert White, Debate Club adviser, explained.

Although Lincoln didn't win in any of the four major debate tournaments entered by the team, several divisional first places were brought home. Abe students were entered in tourneys at Seattle Prep, Gonzaga, Washington State and the College of Puget Sound.

Debaters in these tournaments and at interscholastic meets are judged on their material, thought content and delivery. Arguments are prepared by the individuals entering the meets.

Rifle Club Draws 227 Enthused Students

"All those students interested in being on the Rifle Club for the coming year, please come to the lecture room in the boys' gym at 3:05 promptly."

This was the cry that was heard over the public address system in the fall of this year calling every Lincolnite to join one of Lincoln's top clubs.

This call was answered by one out of every ten Lincoln students—sophomores, juniors and seniors answered this call, as Coach Ellis Johnson addressed 227 potential club members. The club was under way.

Coach Johnson drilled and trained four different teams this year, and three of them came through with city championships. The teams winning this annual competition were the boys' team, girls' team, reserve team and the tyros, or beginners.

This is the fifth consecutive year the boys came through with victories. The last line of consecutive wins for Stadium was three in 1943-'44-'45. The marksmen also placed in the district meet and took place in the National Rifle Association meet. Many of the individuals on the squad have received medals for their ability and 14 of them won their varsity letter.

Letter Lassies Promote Sportsmanship

"As a member of Lincoln Letter Lassies, I will do my best to further the interest in girls' athletics and promote good sportsmanship and a feeling of friendliness among the participants in girls' sports."

Voices hushed by the solemn occasion, 40 girls' sports enthusiasts adopted this creed in September, thereby becoming a part of the Lincoln Letter Lassies.

This impressive ceremony climaxed for them a hectic initiation, yet it marked the beginning of another successful year for the entire club.

Meeting every first and third Thursday under Joanne Dunbar, president; Wilda Ratzlaff, vice-president; Pat Martin, secretary; Margaret Wilber, treasurer; and Doreen Johnson, sports head, LLL planned for coming events.

Their first project led by Joan Cecchi, was the sale of poms poms at the Thanksgiving Day and opening basketball games.

Then on December 1, with Wilda Ratzlaff as chairman, the club staged a Sadie Hawkins dance, one of the few of this kind ever to be held at Lincoln. Music was furnished by a nickelodian, precedent set for the year's school dances.

In an effort to make the entire school posture-conscious, LLL, working with Leah Brown, chairman, sponsored the annual Posture Parade March 15, which drew 65 contestants. First place was captured by Anita Hale, junior; second by Marilyn Cady, senior; and third by Lorraine Bussanich, sophomore.

As a climax to their successful year, L.L.L. held their annual award program in May in the girls' gym, under the direction of Doreen Johnson.

Lettermen Reorganize, Clean Up School

Clearing up the smoking situation around the school and helping the students to help themselves in the line of keeping the lunchroom and grounds clean have been more than enough to keep the Lincoln Lettermans Club active since the beginning of February.

The club was newly-organized this year after a year's absence from its place on the list of Lincoln's clubs.

Some of the letter winners decided that a school this size should have an organization of this kind and set about in February to organize one. "Curly" Thompson was the leader of this group. He succeeded in acquiring Dan Lazare, physical education teacher and football coach, as adviser of the club and the group held their first meeting. The meetings were held in the cafeteria before school because so many of the athletes had to turnout or go to work after school.

"Curly" was elected president of the group and Jerry Hansler, vice-president. Neil Rader was chosen treasurer and Larry Geppert secretary.

Working independently and with the Lincoln Student Court, the club soon began to stop the smoking that had been going on during the lunch periods. It then turned its sights on keeping the grounds tidy during lunch hours. This was also a successful project.

Most of the smoking was stopped by talking to the guilty party, although some of the cases had to go through the court or Principal Burt O. Beal's office.

Turning to the social side of the picture, the newly organized group gave a dance in March and held an assembly in May.

"I am very appreciative of the work done by this club," said Mr. Beal, "and I know now that I can give any job to this club with the assurance that it will be completed saticfactorily and in the shortest time possible, too. I am really indebted to the group for the fine work they have done."

In Memoriam

of those who would have been graduates of 1951

For you our dead, beyond the sea,
Who gave your lives to hold us free,
By us, who keep your memory,
What can be said?

We cannot sing your praises right,
Lost heroes of the endless fight;
Whose souls into the lonely night,
Too soon have fled.

We can but honor, cherish, bless,
Your sacred names; no words express
The measure of our thankfulness,
To you, our dead.

Sidney Low.
